

The Great Fragmentation of Beer

Industry and consumer trends

Jim Watson, Senior Beverage Analyst

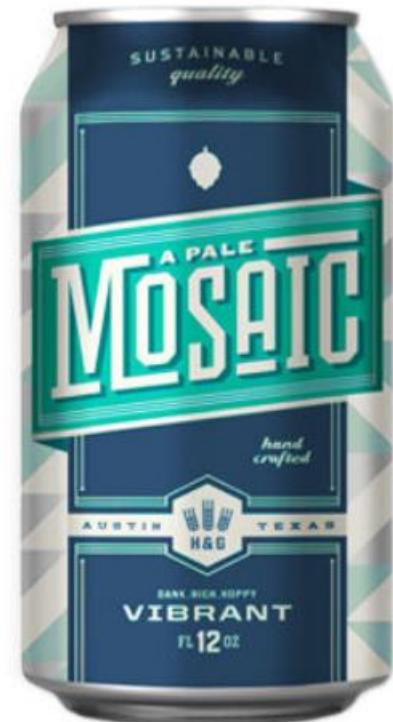

James.Watson@Rabobank.com

January, 2018

Rabobank

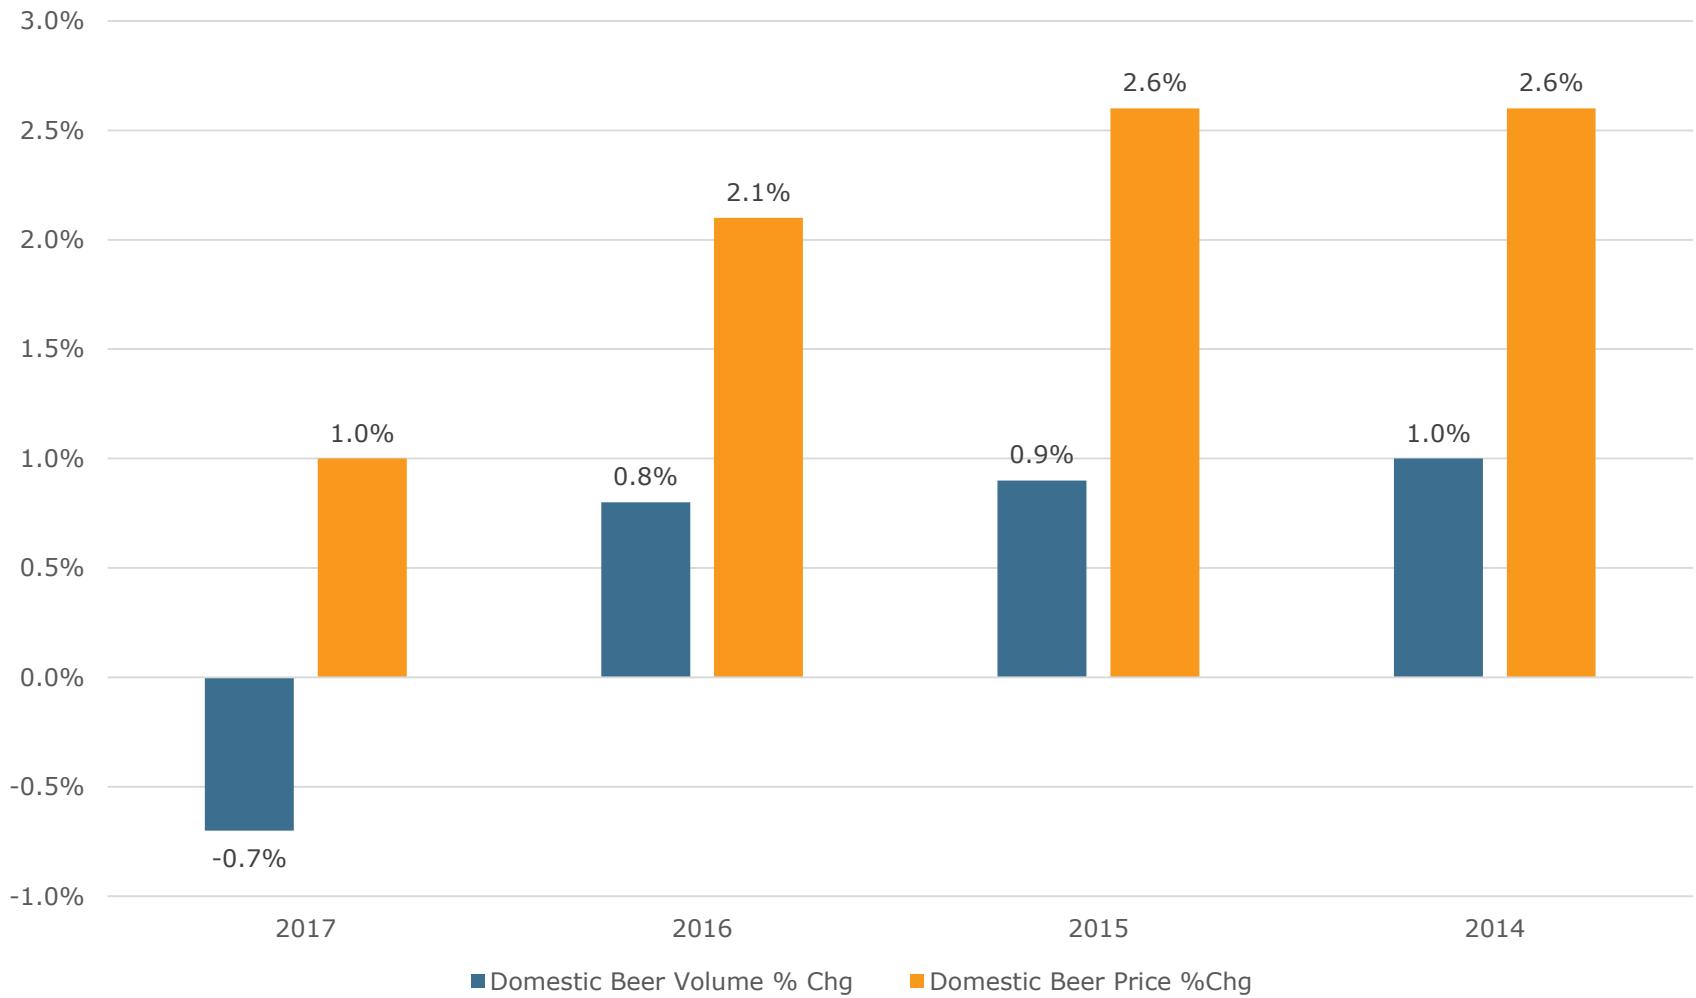

How consumers see beer is changing

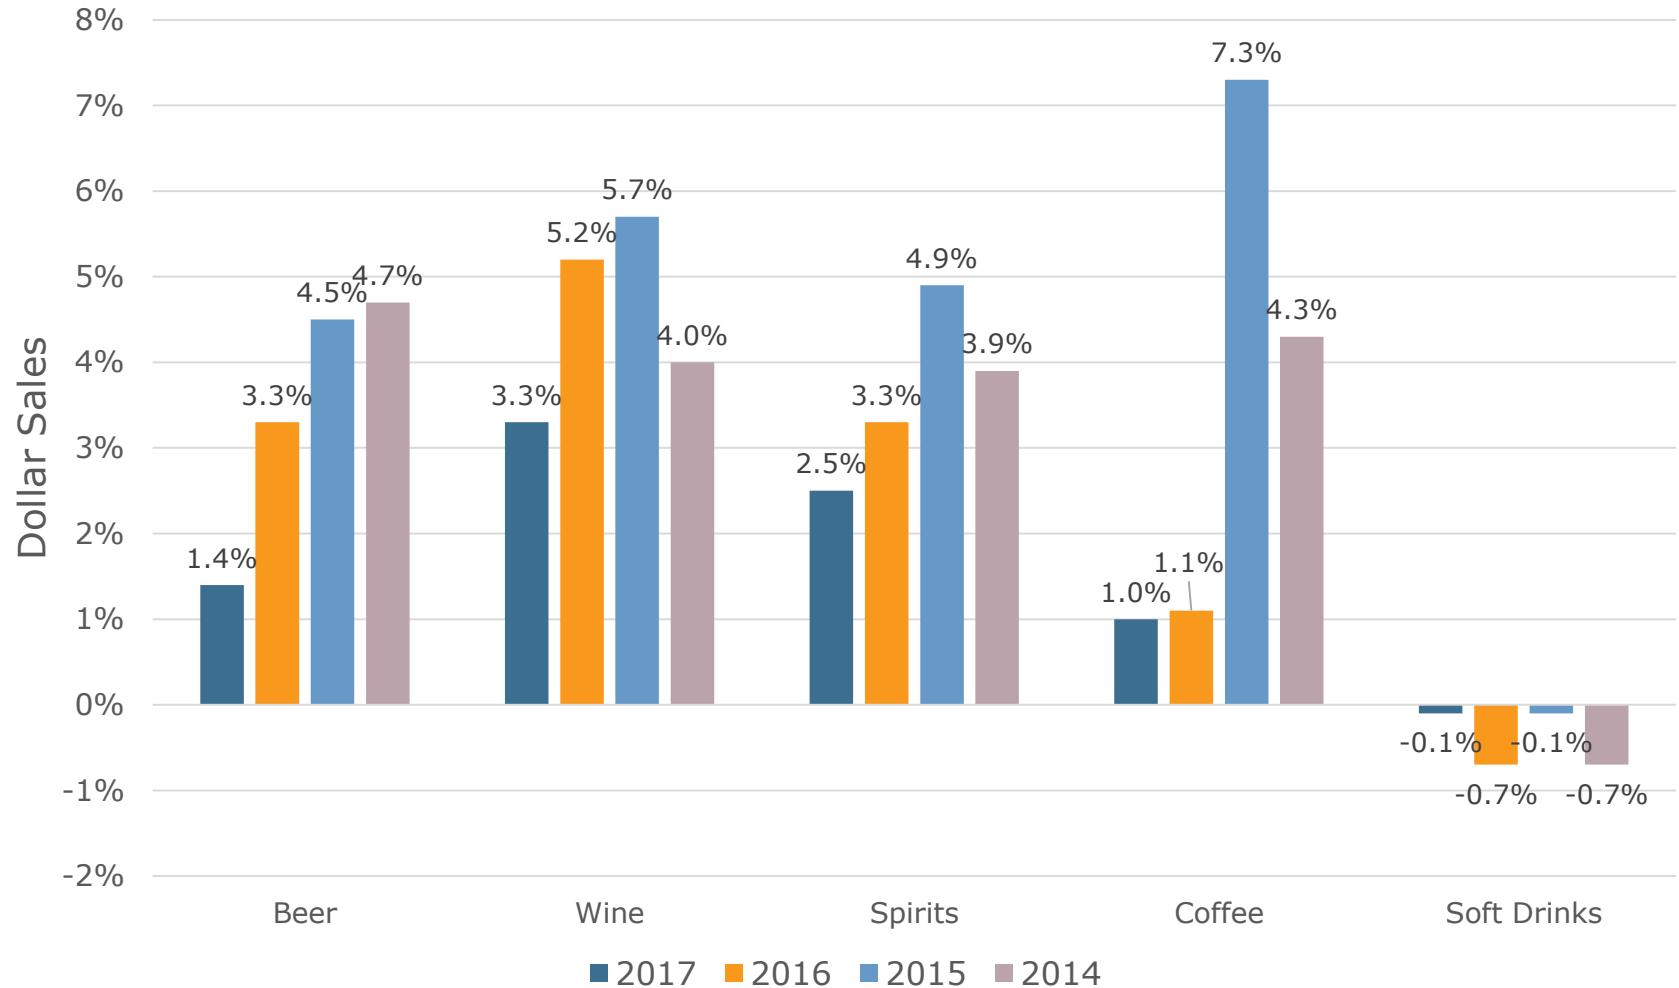

What are we talking about today?

- A quick look at beer data – domestic and global
- What are the big beverage trends
- What are consumers looking for?
- Transparency becoming more important across all beverages
- Single-origin, unique varietals and the farm-to-table connection
- Beer growth is local and targeted

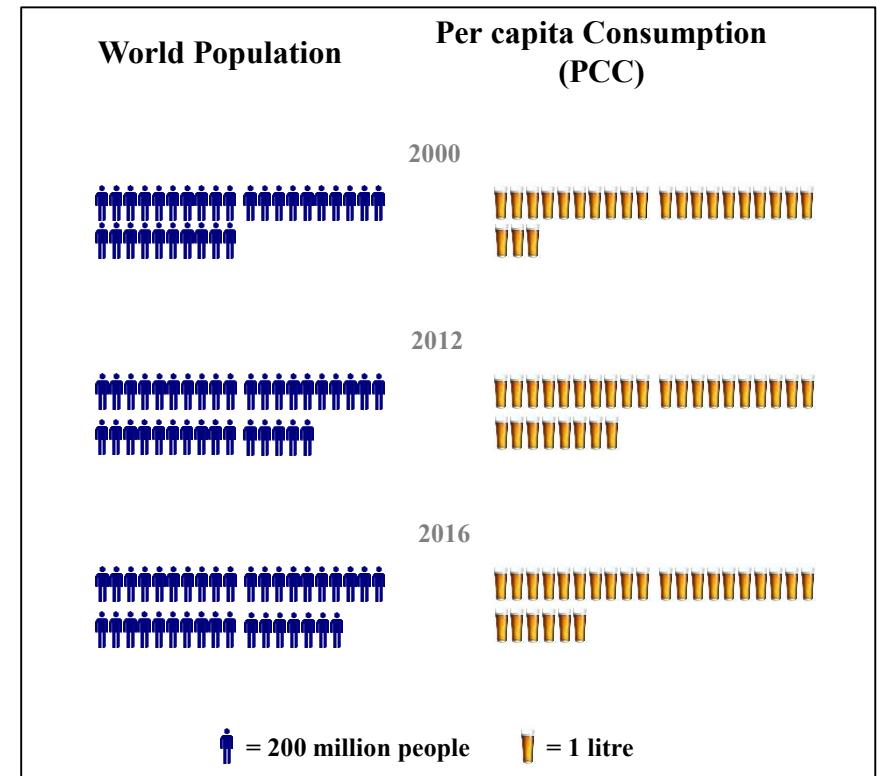

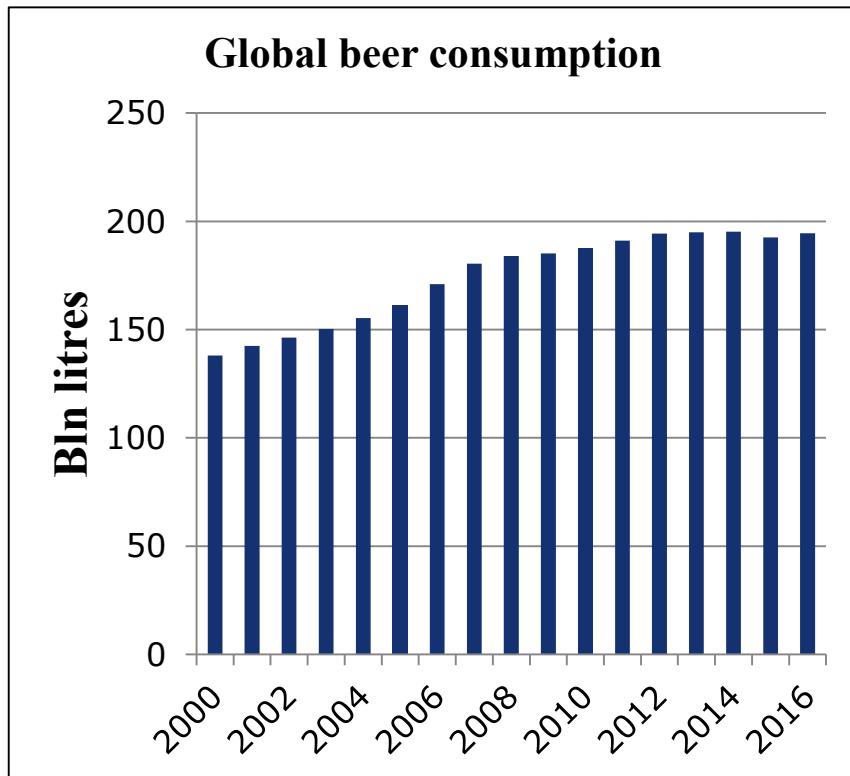

2017 - A tough year for domestic beer

Putting US beer sales in context

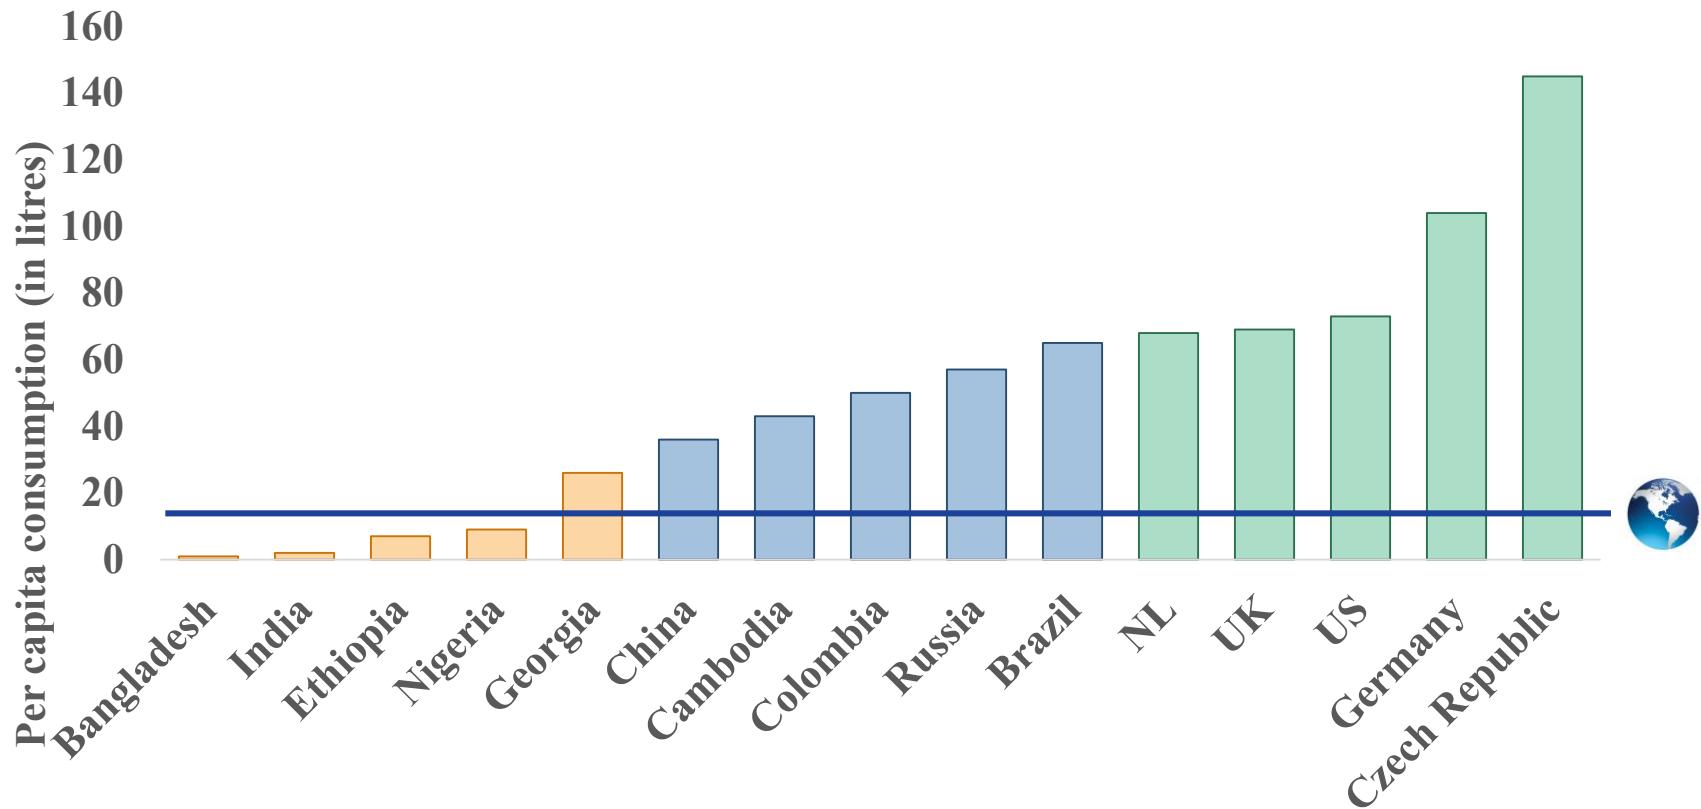

Globally: more people are drinking more beer

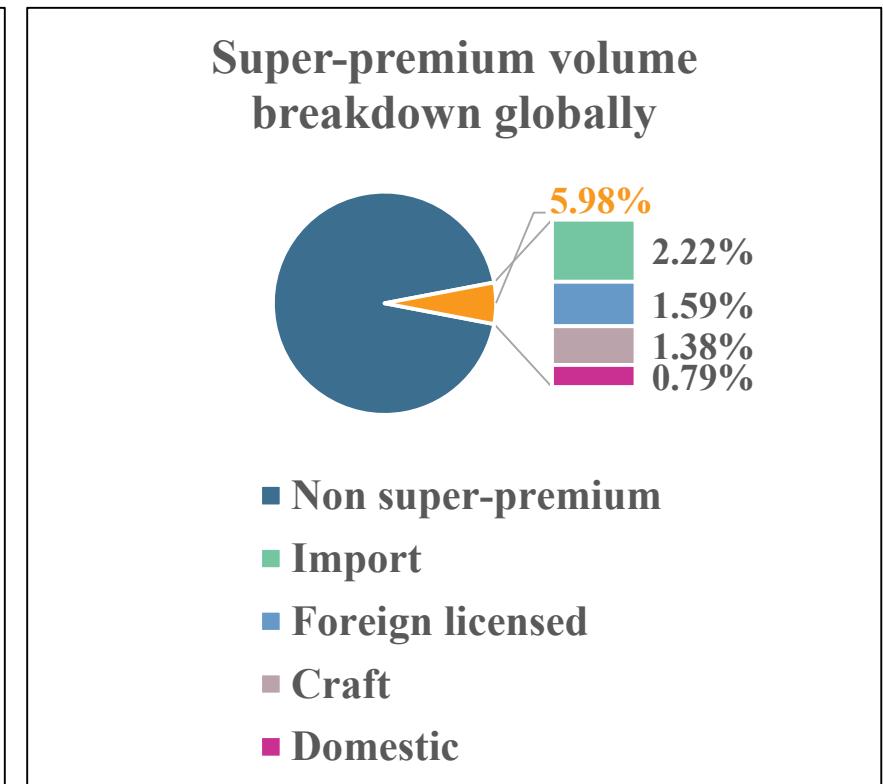

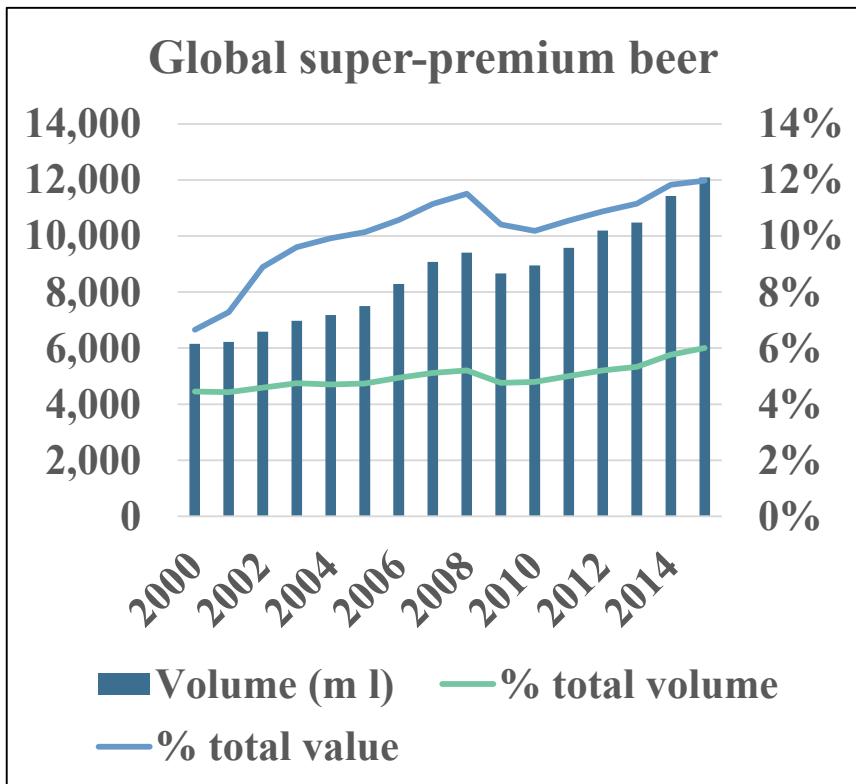

Source: Euromonitor 2017

Affordability and per capita consumption are closely related

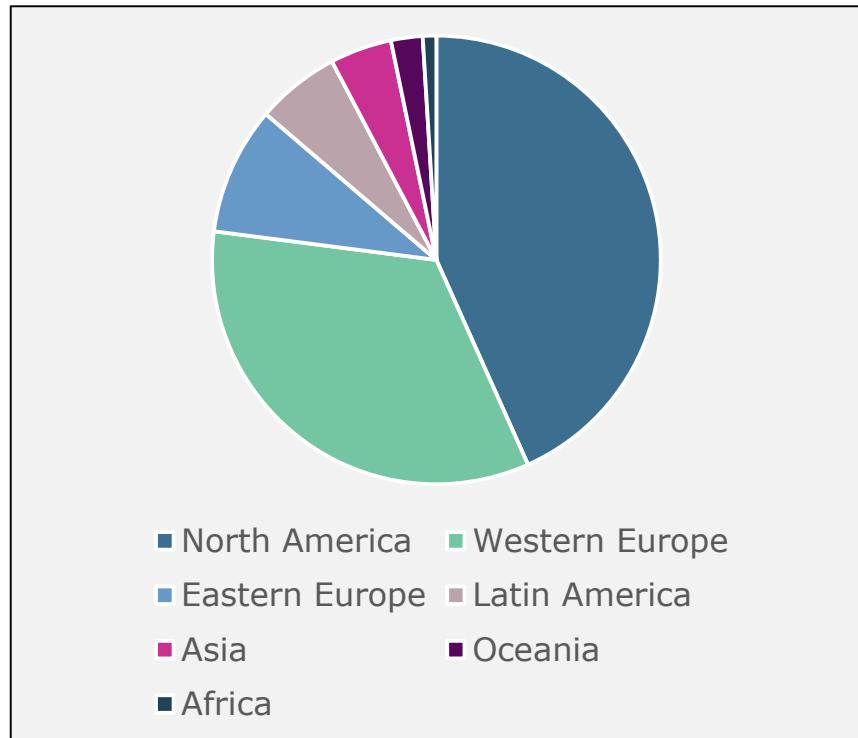

Source: Canadean 2017

'Less-but-better' beer slowly going global

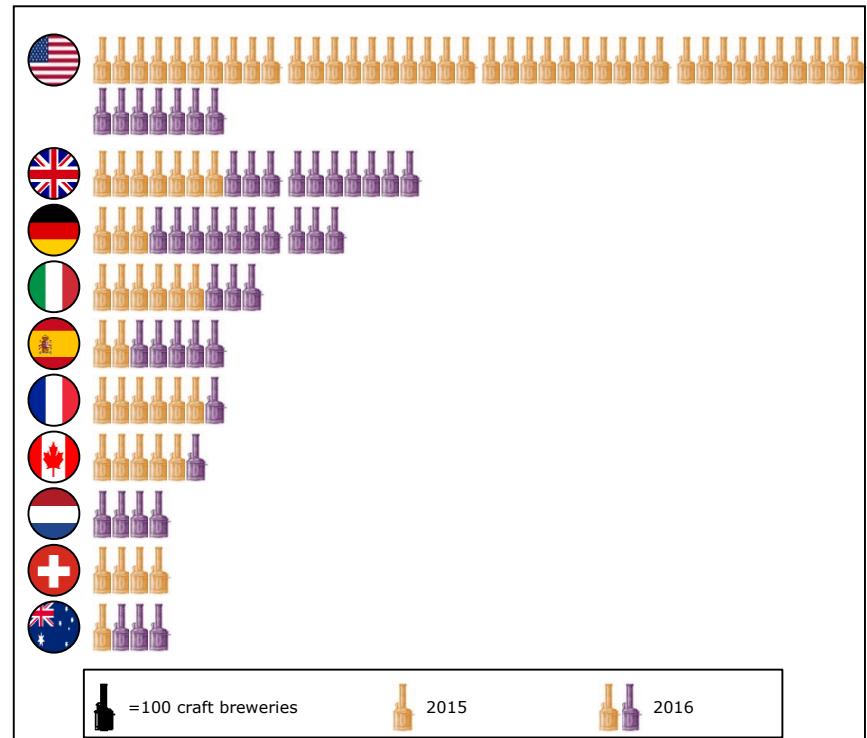

Craft beer has become a global phenomenon of craft breweries by continent, 2015

Top-10 countries by # of craft breweries, 2015/2016

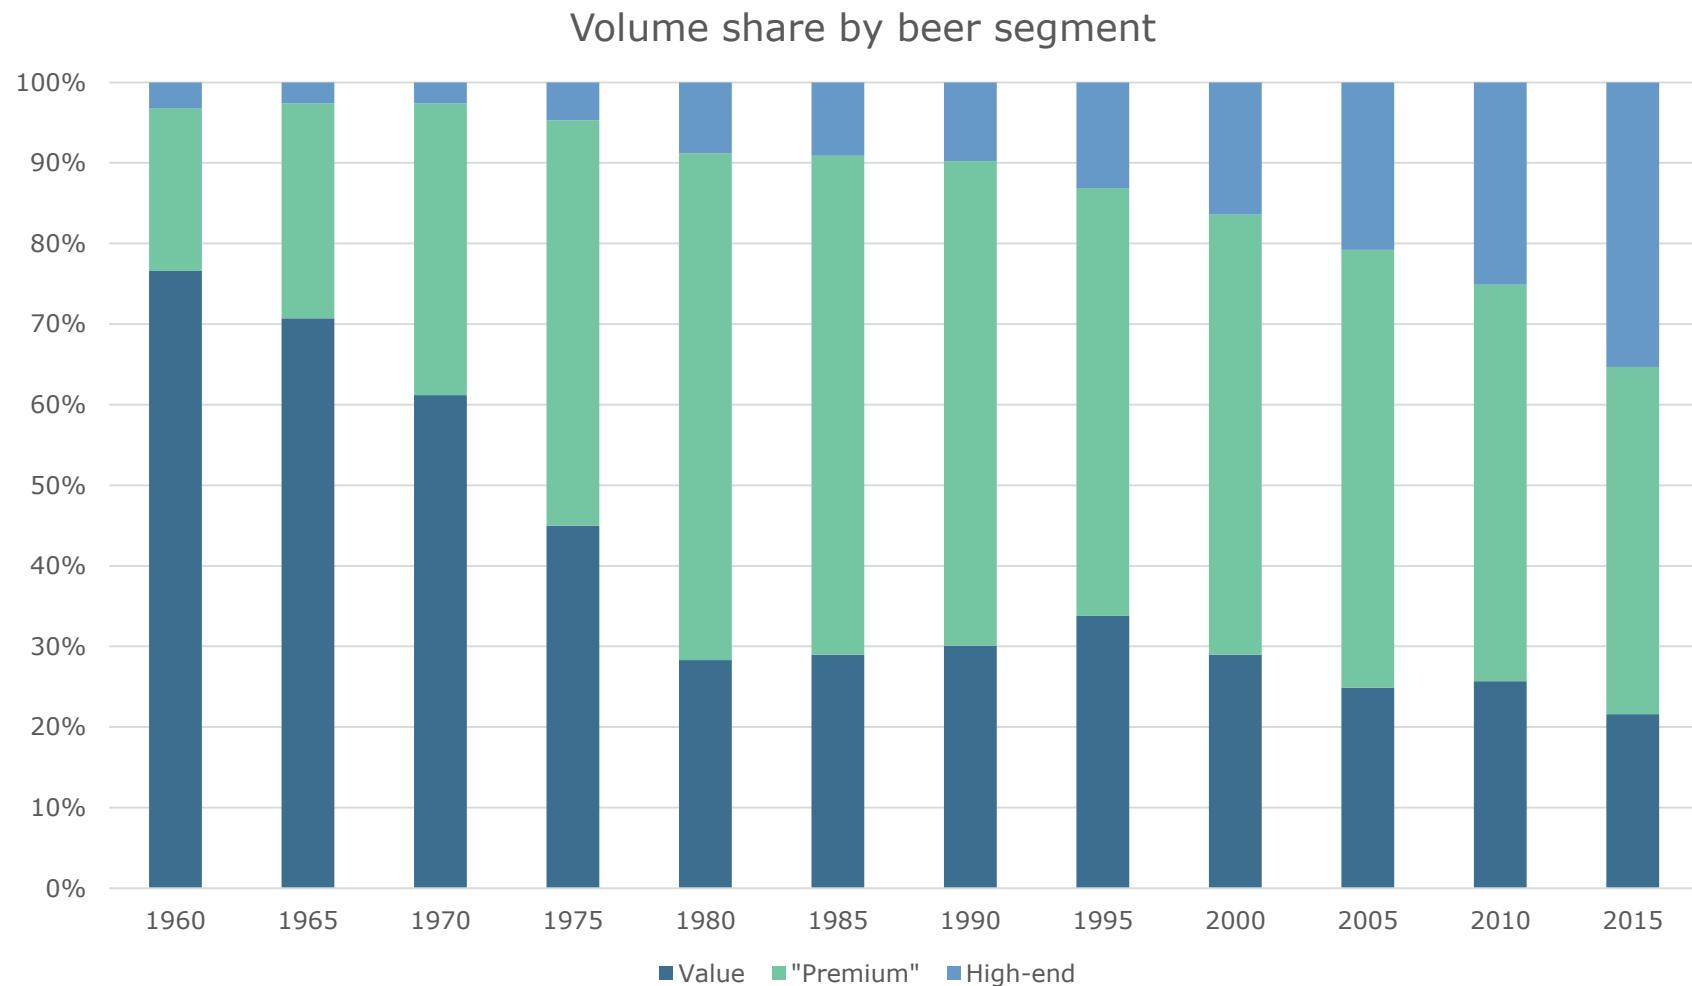

Source: Alltech 2017

Start-ups are taking share from beverage mega-brands

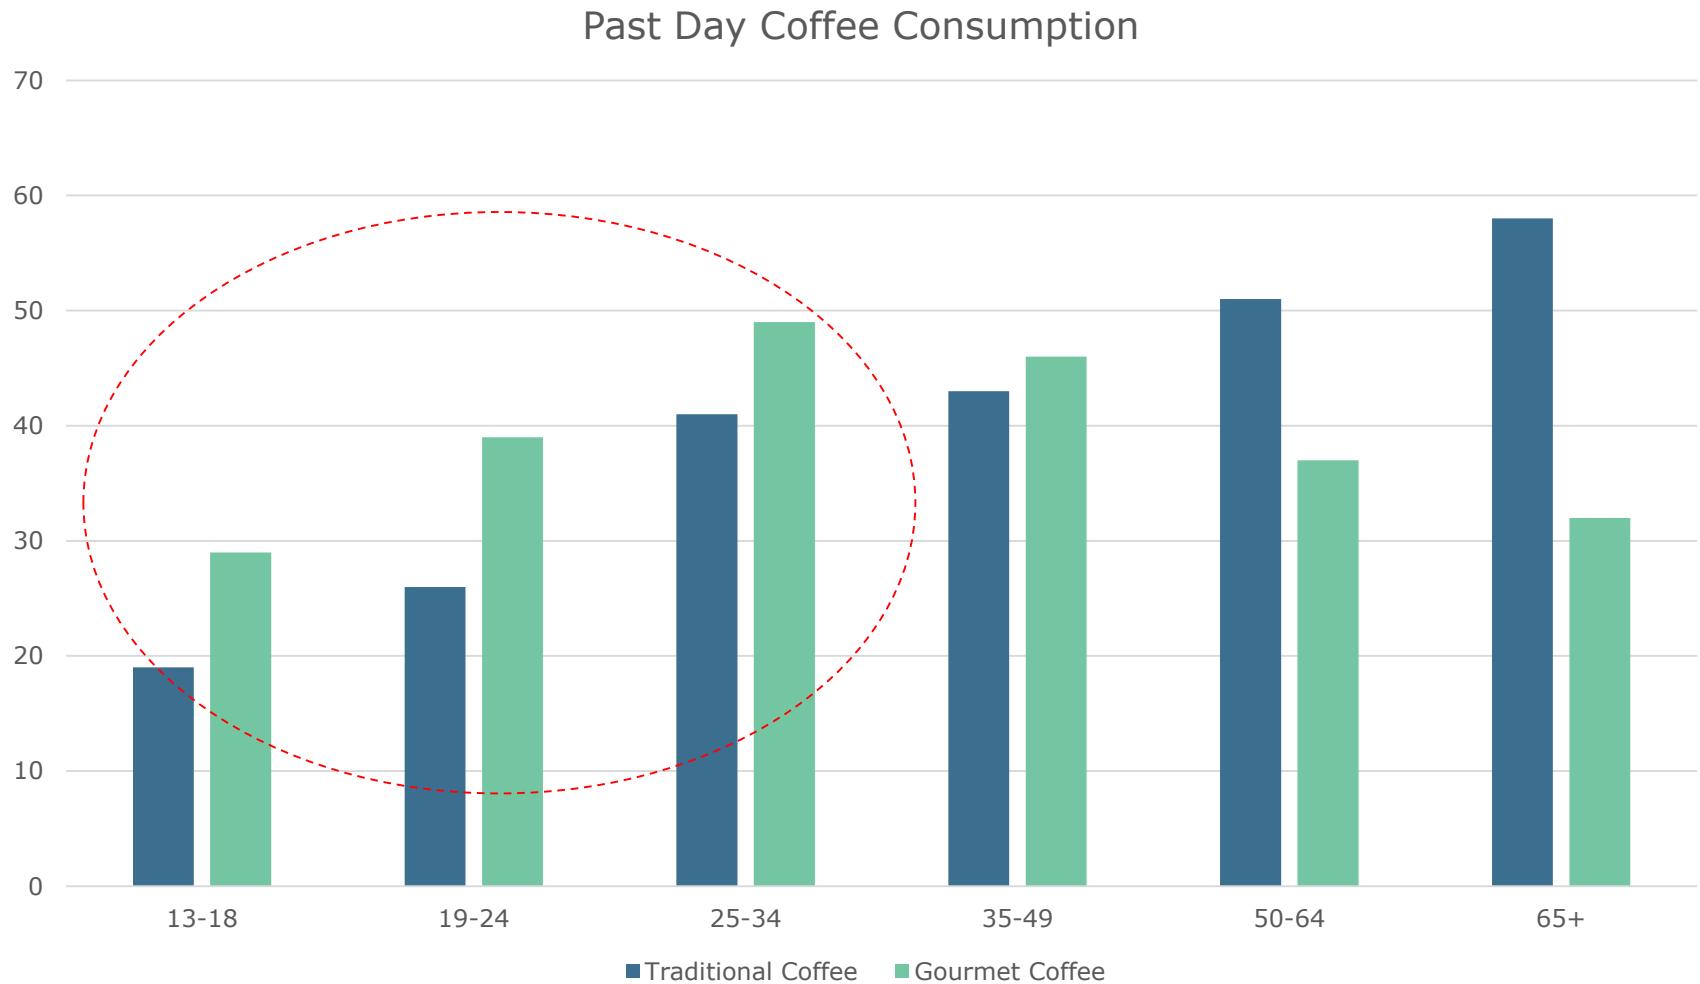

Source: Euromonitor

Premiumization is a long-term consumer trend

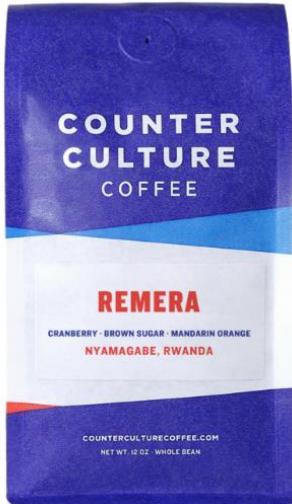

Premiumization is driven by the younger consumer

Change is coming: a vision of premiumisation in coffee

Premium looks similar across beverages

Epiphanie Mukashyaka and her family have been indispensable partners in Rwanda for many years. They own the Remera washing station and are constantly improving their processes with innovative and creative ideas not seen anywhere else. It is no wonder that their coffee is recognized for quality throughout Rwanda and the world. Look for bright notes of cranberry, brown sugar, and mandarin orange.

SAISON/FARMHOUSE ALE

When our brewers were experimenting with variations on a traditional Belgian-style farmhouse ale, the perfect combination of elements came together in fermenter number seven. You could call it fate, but they called it Tank 7, and so it is. Beginning with a big surge of fruity aromatics and grapefruit-hoppy notes, the flavor of this complex, straw-colored ale tapers off to a peppery, dry finish.

2012 ROBERT MONDAVI WINERY RESERVE TO KALON VINEYARD CABERNET SAUVIGNON OAKVILLE NAPA VALLEY

A powerful wine with spicy blackberry and blueberry fruit, cinnamon, sage, coriander and tobacco flavors. Elegantly structured with fresh acidity and fine tannins.

Consumers are looking for FUN beverages

- Functional is added benefits to the consumer. Think about beverages that make claims around energy, rehydration, low/no calorie and add various "healthy" ingredients (antioxidants, vitamins, probiotics, etc...)

- Unique is consumers moving away from megabrands and searching out discovery brands. Products with interesting backstories and charismatic founders win over brands attached to a large multinational

- Natural is both about the literal makeup of the product, the aesthetic/branding and transparency. Ingredients matter, and branding as artisanal and sustainable is key to creating a positive image

Brewery openings just won't stop

New categories are “niche”... until they are not

Energy: an $11bn segment – could grow 3.5-4bn in next 5 years

RTD Coffee: rapid innovation to add $2bn in value by 2021

Kombucha: a $1bn segment that can double in 5 years

Plant based water could reach $1.5bn in value by 2021

Coca-Cola: the least transparent beverage

A more literal view of transparency...

 whetstonewinecellars Whetstone Wine Cellars Follow

 stumptowncoffee ...

► 8,614 views

stumptowncoffee Greetings from David, founder of Huye Mountain Coffee! David brings a discerning eye and processes only perfectly ripe beans, leading to year after year of incredible coffee. Follow the link in our bio to learn more about David and Huye Mountain.

...And more figurative

But wait – is it about transparency, or telling stories?

And what does this mean for hops in beer production going forward?

Single origin coffee drives third wave coffee growth...

Fifteen US Coffee Roasters Win Good Food Awards with All Ethiopian Coffees

Nick Brown | January 22, 2018

Blueprint Coffee, Ethiopia Hambela, Missouri

Compelling Coffee, Ethiopia Banko Gotiti Coffee, California

Intelligentsia Coffee & Tea, Organic Ethiopia Tikur Anbessa, California

JBC Coffee Roasters, Gedeb Lot 83 Ethiopia Natural, Wisconsin

Mudhouse Coffee Roasters, Limu Dabesa, Ethiopia, Virginia

Noble Coffee Roasting, Ethiopian 'Bishan Fugu', Oregon

Noble Coyote Coffee Roasters, Ethiopian Guji – Organic – Natural Process, Texas

OQ Coffee Co., Kayon Mountain Estate, Ethiopia, New Jersey

Ozo Coffee Roasters, Ethiopia Hambela Kirite, Colorado

Pachamama Coffee Cooperative, Organic Ethiopia Kossa Geshe & Organic Ethiopia Natural Amaro, California

Per'La Specialty Roasters, Ethiopia Shakiso, Florida

Revel Coffee, Ethiopia Kayon Mountain Guji Dry, Montana

Royal Mile Coffee, Ethiopia Shakiso Mormora Farm, New Jersey

Square One Coffee, Ethiopia Shakiso Mormora, Pennsylvania

Vashon Coffee Company, Ethiopia Yirgacheffe Natural Daniel Miju, Washington

...And this market can get very serious

Klatch Coffee Selling Esmeralda Geisha 601 At $55 Per Cup

by ZAC CADWALADER • OCTOBER 19 2017 • WIRE

Varietals are an easy way to communicate with consumers

Carmenère Rediscovered

The Lost Key To Bordeaux's Great 19th Century Wines Unlocks a New Future In Chile

12 Wine Grapes Worth Discovering

Eric Asimov

THE POUR MARCH 24, 2017

In the wine world, obscurity's meaning can change quickly. In 2012, I wrote about a dozen esoteric grapes that were worth seeking out. That list included assyrtiko from Santorini and frappato from Sicily. Five years later, these grapes, if not yet household words, are at least firmly established.

Famoso di Cesena According to Ian D'Agata's superb book "Native Wine Grapes of Italy," the famoso di Cesena grape, long grown in the Emilia-Romagna section of Italy, was considered extinct when, in 2000, two rows of old vines were discovered. A small number of producers have since worked to revive it, including Villa Venti, whose Serena Bianco is the only famoso I've encountered. It's intensely aromatic and exotic, with flavors of apricots and herbs.

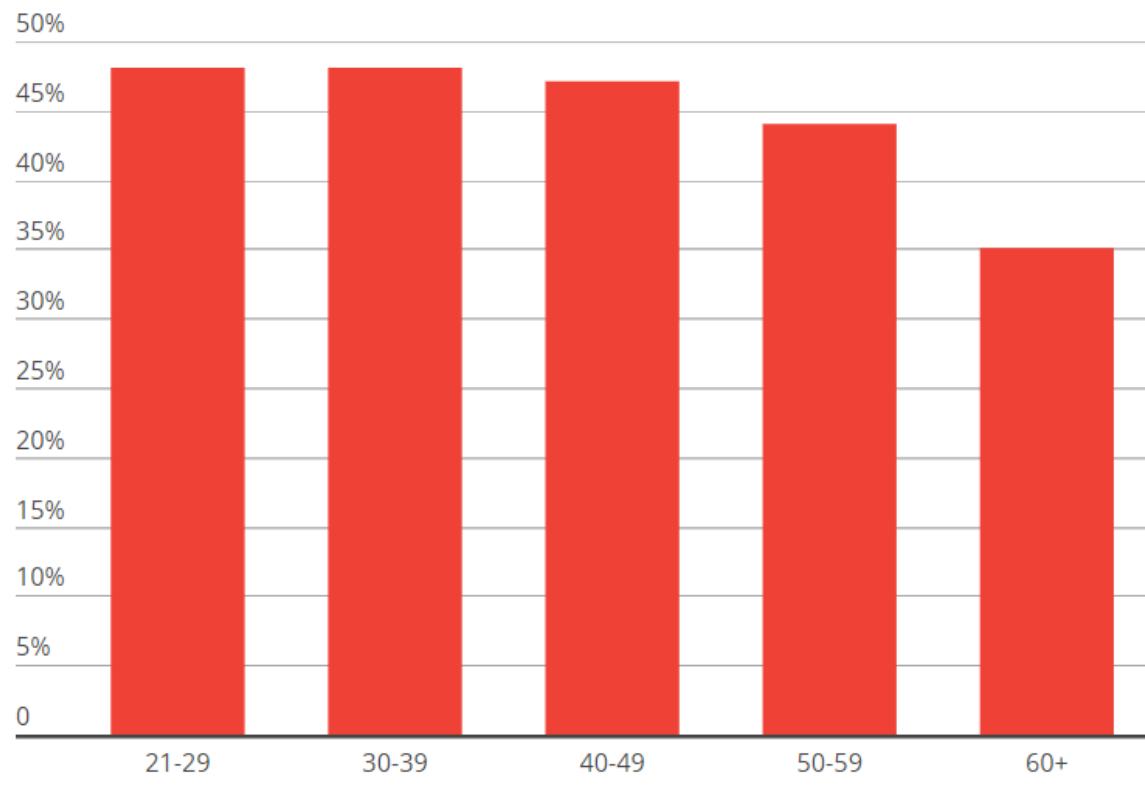

A story of Apple Juice in four bottles

From less to more transparent and local

Beer is already very local

Local Beer Sales as Percent of Domestic Craft Beer Sales by Age

More breweries = more local consumption

Local Beer Sales as Percent of Domestic Craft Beer Sales by State

Going local and targeted

FOOD & DRINK

Viceland's Beerland winner Jessica Fierro buys Great Storm Brewing

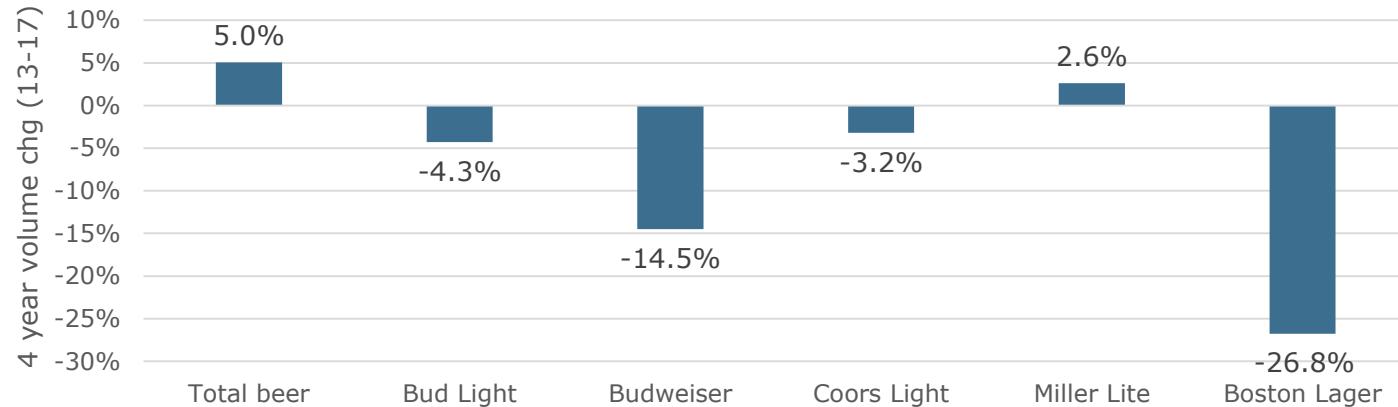

POSTED BY GRIFFIN SWARTZELL ON MON, JAN 22, 2018 AT 4:39 PM

Gretchen Foster, Kelly Bugbee and Ian Steele will be staying on. Long-term, Fierro plans to change the name and refocus the lineup to emphasize Latin flavors, honoring her heritage as she did with Doña Neta. She will, of note, be paying homage to Great Storm's beers as National brands are dying... Dilly Dilly!

Bigger US brands in trouble

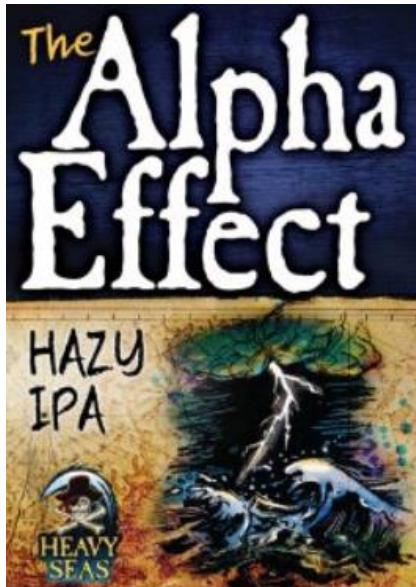

Source: IRI, 2018

What does innovation look like in US beer?

A long history of going bigger and bolder

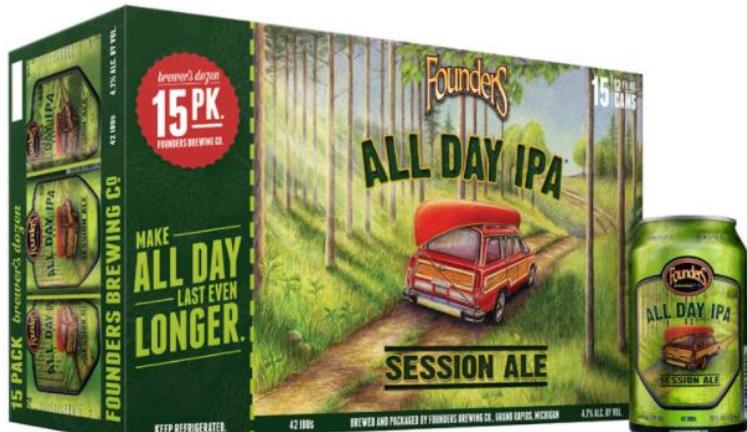

But also a push to reclaim the center

Founders surpasses Bell's as largest Michigan brewery

Robert Allen, Detroit Free Press

Published 5:16 p.m. ET Jan. 19, 2018 | Updated 5:52 p.m. ET Jan. 19, 2018

All Day IPA (4.7% alcohol by volume) is 62% of Founders' output.

"We're the largest craft brewery in Michigan," Bell said, on hearing the numbers on Founders. "Mahou (San Miguel) has always been a bigger brewer than us."

A thought on IPA and the future of craft beer

There's a running joke among brewers that whatever a beer ends up being, just call it an IPA and it'll sell better. Put IPA on the label and it's good to go."

— Steve Luke, Cloudburst Brewing

Do consumers really understand what an IPA is – or has the name just become synonymous with craft?

Craft beer has successfully captured the market looking for bigger and bolder.

The next major development will be learning how to speak to the consumer looking for more than light lager – something flavorful/innovative/authentic but still easily accessible

Parting thoughts

The beer industry (and all beverage segments) change slowly on a year to year basis – but massively on a 10-15 year time horizon.

The shakeout really is happening in craft beer – it is a difficult time to be caught in the middle.

Expect more partnerships – industry consolidation will continue

Price competition will only intensify in the craft beer space

For the biggest brewers, cost cutting will continue to be core to earnings growth

Within the next several years I will be intensely debating a completely new style of beer – and have a six-pack (four-pack?) in my fridge. Innovation won't stop.